TURNING GRAY.

Life's sands are running fast away;
The buoyant step of youth is gone,
The falling hair is turning gray,
And Time seems now to hurry on
More fleetly than in days of yore—
Before the heart became its prey—
Before 'twas saddened to the core— Yes, turning gray! Age comes like snow—
As still—and carves each careworn line;
It's wrinkles on the brow will grow;
The hair with silver streaks will shine;
The eyes their brightness lose, the hand
Grow dry and tremulous and thin;—
For life, alas! is quickly spanned,
And Death its gates soon closes in. Ab! turning gray! We fain would hide, The sign how loog with Time we've bee

These deepened wrinkles side by side, Cut by the sorrows we have seen; For feeble beats the heart as years More thickly cluster on our head— As Autumn rain-drops bang like tears. On some fair flower that' nearly dead Like perished petals from the flower, Our hopes and wildest joys are laid; Burn only for a day or hour,
Sweet gambols by the fancy played,
As age-comes on, we long for rest,
As saints near shrines will long to pray.
But shil we love that time the best
Before the hair is turning gray.
